

Problem Statement

Gas engines are going out of commission.

Details:

Gas engines are going out of commission. Due the new production of electric vehicles and the efficiency they bring to the table. Including the rise in gas prices that are moving more and more people towards electricity. Electric is also providing more and more charging stations and efficient plus cheap ways to charge upcoming models and releases.